CB'ers Who Aren't 'Good Buddies'

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Your eyes are glued to the television set and Perry Mason is about to name the real murderer.

Suddenly, Perry opens his mouth and a loud "Mountain Squire, Mountain Squire, how do you all read me, over?" disrupts the set and your concentration.

Incensed, you call the Federal Communications Commission to register a complaint against this invasion of your living room (and privacy) and are informed, matter-of-factly, that there isn't anything the FCC can do about this.

Indeed, you will likely be coldly informed that it's your television set that needs adjustment to blot out the neighborhood Citizens Band (CB) transmitter.

Or, you can buy a small adaptor that hooks to the back of your set and is specially designed to filter out this CB nuisance. Cost of this filter is between $3 and $8.

To viewers, that's all the CB radios do create a nuisance.

But to model enthusiasts, an illegal CB transmitter (one that's broadcasting in the wrong frequency) can cost money, sometimes a lot of money.

Don Ciucci of Daly City is a member of the North American Model Boat Association (NAMBA) and the nationwide organization of Radio-Controlled Flyers.

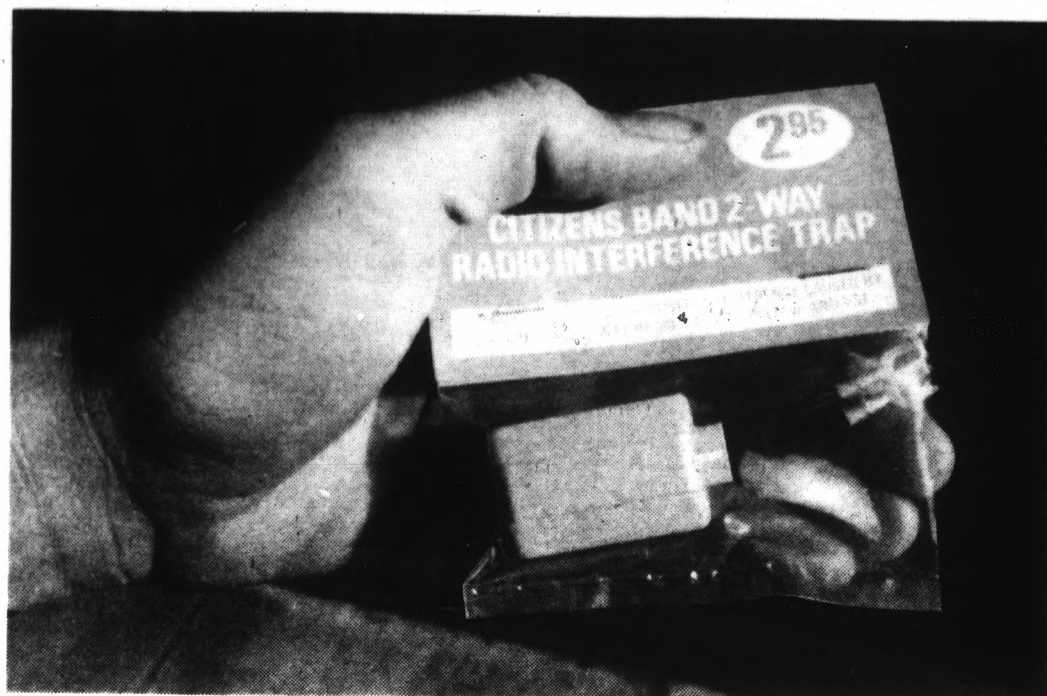

In recent years, CB'ers have gradually invaded the model enthusiasts' airwaves, Ciucci claims.

There seems to be no relief in sight as CB radios continue to glut the market, he said.

"We're not worried about those responsible CB'ers who use the legal frequencies," Ciucci said.

Radio controlled models operate on frequency 27 MKZ. Some CB'ers also use this frequency illegally, Ciucci said.

But how can hobbyists prove an invasion of the airwaves? The relatively small groups of hobbyists See GOOD BUDDIES, Page Two

THE POST

Vol. 30, No. 52 DELIVERED EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING WEDNESDAY, DEC., 29, 1976

Broadmoor Swallows Hard, Joins DCPD

The once-proud Broadmoor Police District, the last such district in the state, will be just another Daly City police beat starting on New Year's Day.

Despite heavy protests from citizens and from one member of its board, the Broadmoor Police Commission voted 2-1 Monday to enter into a six-month contract with neighboring Daly City for police services.

At a public meeting hours later, the City Council of Daly City in a 4-1 split vote ratified the agreement in the face of further protests from several Broadmoor citizens who told the council, "We don't want Daly City, now or ever."

Why had Broadmoor, a supposed avowed enemy of its big and powerful neighbor, come before the City Council, hat in hand, to plead for police services?

At one minute after midnight on Jan. 1, 1977, Broadmoor's liability insurance with Hartford Insurance Co. will be canceled — several months before its normal expiration date.

Without insurance, the police district cannot operate for fear a lawsuit might endanger every property owner in the district by placing the burden of payment on their shoulders.

Officially, no one will say what caused this sudden decision by Hartford. However, district

Only three years ago, Daly City also was told its insurance was being canceled.

For several days, City Mgr. David Rowe concentrated on securing coverage from another company.

Others, longtime critics of Daly City government, do not share Rowe's views on the subject.

Mike Handlin, an unsuccessful police commission candidate in the district elections earlier this year, told the city council, "The people (of Broadmoor) voted 3-1 to stay out of Daly City — we don't want to go into Daly City."

"If I was a citizen of Daly City I would ask 'What are you doing with my tax money?'" Handlin said.

Handlin went on to criticize the Daly City Police Department, insinuating that it would not serve the needs of Broadmoor.

As had Commissioner O. Wayne Johnson, Handlin said he wanted Broadmoor to contract with Colma for police services.

Colma knows the community and is contiguous to Broadmoor, Handlin said.

But the two other commissioners, John McCloskey and Dean Davenport, pointed out in marathon meetings held at various locations throughout Monday that Colma wanted to use only four of the community's seven police officers.

Colma would allow the other three full-time officers to be hired, but would farm them back to Broadmoor for use as the commission saw fit — other than as active police officers.

And Colma wanted "administrative costs" on top of the insurance premium override cost, amounting to some $1,700 per month.

Daly City agreed to hire all Broadmoor police, as police, to work within the Broadmoor District wearing their own uniforms, driving patrol cars with the Broadmoor emblem and continuing under the super-See BROADMOOR, Page 2

Laughter As Victim Lay Dying

Customers of a San Francisco drive-in restaurant stood snickering and laughing as a 53-year-old Daly City man lay bleeding from a gunshot wound during an apparent robbery attempt Thursday night.

Carol Peppers, a 24-year-old restaurant cook, was quoted as saying, "Customers stood around as if it was a sideshow. They were laughing."

The victim, Joseph Romero, of 172 St. Michael's Court, died in the San Francisco General Hospital surgery room.

According to police, Romero and his wife Camella stopped at the Tic-Tock Restaurant at 5411 Third St. at about 10 p.m. to have a late dinner.

As they were walking out of the restaurant, police said they were accosted by three "tall black males." One of the suspects brandished a weapon and demanded money from Romero.

Police said Romero turned away from the men and began walking away. Four shots were fired. One struck Romero in the back.

Romero's wife stood above her husband's body shouting and crying, while some 30 of the other restaurant customers scattered from the scene.

Brisbane Gets Yule Street Work Windfall

Brisbane was notified Monday it was one of only two cities in the county to receive part of a $225 million federal Local Public Works Capital Development and Investment Act grant.

The small bayside community's share of the money amounts to some $3.4 million, City Manager Clark Smithson said Monday after learning of the windfall.

Word of the grant came only minutes after an "official" letter was received from C. Mark Smith, Regional Director of the U.S. Department of Commerce's Economic Development Administration, notifying Brisbane the grant had been disapproved.

A few hurried phone calls later and Smithson was convinced the city had been given the money, thus beating out virtually every other city on the Peninsula for the funds.

What will the grant mean to Brisbane?

New streets, sidewalks, gutters, and storm drains on almost every street in the city, Smithson said.

Mayor Joe Thompson explained the city sorely needed these improvements and for several years the street program had been given number one priority by the council.

It will also mean jobs — some 82 new jobs over the next 18 months, Smithson said.

Smithson hopes the city will go out to bid within two months.

The grant stipulates that a recipient of the federal money must be prepared to begin construction of a project within 90 days, it was understood.

When completed, improvements will be made along six miles of city streets and two miles of Bayshore Boulevard.

Two main streets — Visitation and San Bruno avenues — were improved earlier.

Smithson said he applied for the grant about two months ago.

"The numbers came out right. We had the right combination of figures," Smithson said in announcing the approval.

The federal government based its approval on unemployment figures and needs of a community, Smithson explained.

Brisbane committed itself several years ago to spending between $100,000-150,000 annually to repair streets, Thompson said.

"This grant will relieve pressure on the budget (as a result of this commitment)," Thompson said.

Date Set in Hinnant Case

Palm J. Hinnant, 37, pleaded not guilty to charges of assault, kidnap and extortion, Tuesday morning in Northern Judicial District Court.

Less than three miles from the United Airlines maintenance base, where he is accused of holding two fellow workers hostage aboard a DC-8 jetliner all night, Hinnant said he had done no wrong.

Superior Court Judge Charles Becker set Jan. 24 for a preliminary hearing and continued bail at $100,000.

Defense Attorney David Ehmann asked for a reduction in bail. He said Hinnant's friend, Clarence Hamlet, would guarantee Hinnant's appearance in court if bail were lowered to $1,000.

Hamlet is one of the men credited with talking Hinnant into giving himself up after the all-night wait at San Francisco International Airport last week.

Assistant Dist. Atty. Cliff Cretan argued that Hinnant was mentally unstable and a poor risk for bail.

At Hinnant's arraignment last week, attorney

Ehmann had admitted that Hinnant needed psychiatric examination. He did not say Tuesday whether the exam had been officially sought.

Although Hinnant is charged with two counts of assault, two counts of unlawful detention, and one count each of kidnapping and attempted extortion, he was not handcuffed when he appeared in court.

Security appeared minimal but the prisoner appeared cooperative.

Hinnant answered Judge Becker calmly when asked questions, courtroom observers said.

Burlingame Woman Killed in a Fire

A fatal fire flamed through the family room of a Burlingame home late Monday night, taking the life of the 49-year-old former wife of a San Mateo doctor.

Police and fire fighters said the body of Audrey Ann Lindsey was discovered in the burned out family room at 311 Lexington Way.

She apparently was alone in the house, except for a small brown and black dog, when the fire started at about 10 p.m.

Tighter Rein Recommended CATV Permit Granted

Vista Grande was given a one-year extension of its franchise by the City Council of Daly City Monday following a public hearing that has spanned the past two months.

City Atty. Albert Polonsky told the council the cable television company had repeatedly violated its agreement with the city in the past. He strongly recommended a tighter policy be maintained to insure that the company live up to its agreement.

In the face of this criticism, a Vista Grande's attorney, Thomas Renk, asked the council consider a rate hike for the company.

Apparently, the impact of Renk's request did not register, because neither the council members nor city staff dwelled on the suggestion.

Instead, Polonsky continued his presentation to the council by pointing up the fact that it is "not a question of what is going on now, (the) question is whether a good maintenance and service program will continue."

Vista Grande's service and maintenance program had come under fire from customers and city staff in the past.

However, in recent months, complaints against Vista Grande had slackened, records indicate.

Polonsky thinks the council's strict supervision of the company is responsible for this changeabout.

Polonsky pressed for a local office, noting that Daly City was the county's second largest city and "people here should have an office they can take their complaints to."

Councilman William Schumacher charged the company was "mismanaged" and he wondered aloud why "Vista Grande isn't broke from mismanagement."

But he admitted he had no alternative to revocation of the company's television permit.

"There is no prompt solution," he said.

Mayor Anthony Giammona, one of the company's most vociferous critics, suggested that a "no show" penalty be invoked against the company if service crews fail to keep appointments with patrons.

The mayor explained that people take off from work and wait for service crews to arrive, often losing a day's pay.

No action was taken on this suggestion.

A Christmas Marriage That's Lasted 70 Years

By JANET PARKER

It's not easy to weather a marriage through two world wars, a stock market crash and women's liberation.

But in case you need a helping hand, ask Chester and Anne B. Sayles of San Bruno. They made it.

Dec. 25 the San Bruno couple celebrated 70 years of marriage — a marriage that's been tied together by cooperation, patience and a confectionary business.

The secret behind their successful marriage? "We knew where one another was all the time," said Mrs. Sayles, who is 86. Her 89-year-old husband nodded agreement.

Their son, Roy Sayles, a South San Francisco businessman, said the key is simply that divorce was an unspoken word in his parents' day.

"She'd get mad at him and he'd get mad at her but they'd always end up together," Roy Sayles said. "They'd always straighten things out."

The Sayleses moved to California from Seattle 43 years ago looking for greener pastures in the depresso term. They've lived in San Bruno in a tiny but cozy, white stucco Montgomery Avenue house for five years.

Their daughter, Sally O'Conner, lives in Florida. Scattered over the country are five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The Sayleses make marriage — 70 years of it, in fact — look like a breeze.

"We got mad at each other, but we always got over it," said Anne Sayles. They didn't argue, she said, like couples do today.

Both fondly remembered the days in Seattle — the best years of the marriage, they say — Mrs. Sayles wistfully recalled the fraternity boys and sorority girls of University of Washington who spent hours at their candy store and soda shop.

She said she still has the fraternity pin the college boys gave her as an honorary member and she remembers with a smile how they called her "Ma."

By day, Chester Sayles hauled out his golf clubs and played 18 holes while a patient Anne Sayles tended the store. Then, he'd labor until 2 a.m., painstakingly producing the chocolate creams, bon bons and caramels.

The stock market crash forced them to sell their cherished business. Sayles recalled that it was "the most horrible thing that ever hit the world."

However, commercial candy stores today don't stir up vivid memories of sweet smelling kitchens, vats of chocolate and hours spent together running the business. They said the candy boxes they receive at Christmas and other times of year are nothing but "fonda" — sugar and water.

Anne was only 16 when Chester popped the question and they set the Christmas Day wedding.

The proposal was nothing dramatic, he said. He didn't get down on his knee and he didn't ask her parents for her hand in marriage. Just a simple "Will you marry me."

In those days, Anne Sayles recalled, social dances were the gathering place for families and their children. Not the sock-hops and rock concerts of this decade but old-fashioned, family-oriented square dances. Parents would attend with children of all ages in tow.

It was at one of those dances in Seattle where the two teen-agers met.

"In our day, we used to dance a lot," Mrs. Sayles said. "On Saturday nights we would all meet at the dance. The rules were very strict — nothing like it today."

They would dance and dance and dance — square dances, polkas, two-steps and quadrilles, a type of square dance in many different rhythms.

It was a way to meet other younger people and their parents as well, she recalls. And it was through one of those dances that she met the man she's been with for 70 years.

Of course, they said, there have been arguments and hard times, just like in any marriage. Sharing 70 years of life with someone isn't easy.

But today, young couples don't try hard enough to make their marriage last, she said. No-fault divorce has made permanent separation easier and marriages longer than 25 years are less common.

"Nowadays, they have a quarrel and off they go," said Mrs. Sayles. "My mother told me you get married once — and that's it."

Divorce was simply something that wasn't openly considered.

"Young single women today," she said, are looking for money, more than anything else in a marriage.

"They are out to get all they can out of fellas," she said, whether it's a washing machine and dryer or simply a soft life.

Young women, she said, think she is silly for doing the things she did — cleaning clothes on a scrub washer (she never did own a washing machine) and running the candy store all day then return home to cook a meal for her family.

Now, the couple watches television together in their home. Although Mrs. Sayles is stricken with arthritis and needs a walker to move about, they manage to grocery shop together at a nearby market, Chester pushing his wife in her wheelchair. In fact, he still has an annually renewable driver's license to take his wife shopping.

Despite her teen-age marriage, she suggested that women today wait until they are at least 22 or 23 years of age to marry.

Experiencing a little bit of life can strengthen the marriage, she said.

"You have to get along. You have to give in to one another," she said.

do not have the resources necessary to ferret out CB violators, Ciucci said.

"The government has the time, money and manpower, but has thus far refused to take on this responsibility," Ciucci charges.

(Model boaters use frequency 27 MKZ and model flyers 72 MKZ, it was learned).

All model hobbyists have a "Class C" citizens radio station license issued by the FCC, Ciucci said.

And while their radio transmitters, used to control aircraft and boats, put out one watt of power, CB radios use four watts.

Often this CB wattage is increased

When this CB watt output is increased, trouble starts for any model planes on boats that happen to be nearby.

Using modelers' terminology the boat or plane controls are "glitched."

Earlier this year, model boaters were having an outing at Oakland's Lake Merritt.

Ciucci was among the contestants and was proudly putting his 5-foot, 3-in. model cabin cruiser through its paces when all of a sudden it went out of control, roared crazily toward an eight foot long "Toro" class sailboat and rammed it.

The Toro did not sink, but damage was estimated at $272. Fortunately, Ciucci had insurance to cover it.

That same afternoon, three other model boats went berserk but did not hit any other boats.

"I can't prove it, but I'm certain the reason those boats went out of control was interference from a CB radio broadcasting over and above the legal limit," Ciucci said.

There have been similar incidents involving model planes.

These "toys" are not cheap.

Many planes cost from $200 to $1,000 plus, and from $300 up for a boat.

Meanwhile, back in front of the television set, some viewers have registered complaints with the government concerning alleged profanities picked up on their sets.

One thing is certain, critics of CB radios agree, contrary to what some people have been told by advertisers of this radio equipment and by a popular recording star, there is a growing number of CBers who just ain't "good buddies."

vision of their own superior officers.

Daly City Police Chief David Hansen would be overall supervisor. Rowe explained.

Retired Broadmoor police chief Ray Savage praised Daly City, saying he felt Broadmoor would benefit highly from this arrangement.

Another Broadmoor resident, Raymond Johns, said he had been burglarized last year and lost some $2,000 in valuables.

He said the Daly City police came to his house and told him how to protect his property from further burglaries, even though his home is not in Daly City.

For every critic of the temporary agreement between Daly City and Broadmoor, there were supporters.

Henry Normans of Larchmont Drive, a 35-year resident of Broadmoor, said he supported the move and doesn't understand what the animosity (between Broadmoor and Daly City) is all about.

But Randy Wall, president of the Broadmoor Property Owners Association, informed the council the recent vote to double taxes in Broadmoor "was a vote to stay out of Daly City."

Councilman Victor Kyriakis concluded the hearing on the issue by commenting he was "very impressed" by what he had heard.

"I don't know where it's going to go from here and I don't care where it goes from here," Kyriakis said.

Earlier Monday, about a dozen citizens of Broadmoor packing the small commissioners' meeting room at the Broadmoor Police District blasted Commissioners Davenport and McCloskey for voting to contract with Daly City.

Gerard Biagini, a member of the citizens advisory committee, an unofficial group that participated in the selection of a contracin a family room near the front of the house facing Lexington. Mrs. Lindsey's body was discovered there after firemen stopped the blaze.

Fire Captain Wendell Mason said firemen Richard Munson and Jim Lunsford entered the smoke-filled room and found Mrs. Lindsey badly burned and apparently already dead.

Captain Mason said the room had contained a television set, a fold-out sofa-bed and other furnishings.

It was assumed Mrs. Lindsey might have been sitting alone, smoking, when the fire started.

Officer Carroll reported that he and Ahern tried to enter the house but were driven back by dense black smoke.

They said fire fighters confined the blaze to the single front room and a connecting hall, though there was some smoke damage elsewhere in the house.

Child Abuse Caseload Likely to Get Heavier Under New State Law

By MICHELLE CARTER

"We want the community to know that the child abuse problem in this county is much greater than just the dependency (Dependent Children's Services) cases."

The speaker is Dianne Earle, a social worker in the Children's Protective Services agency of the county, and her concern is that the public might get the impression that the child abuse problem in this county is limited to the much-publicized cases of the Dependent Children's Services.

The 15 workers of the Protective Children's Services are on the front line of the child abuse and neglect problem. They are the ones who get the referrals — the calls from the worried neighbor who has listened to the unending screams of the child next door or from the doctor who has just diagnosed the bruised and broken 4-year-old as a victim of child abuse.

They get the calls, often through their special referral telephone line, and act on them. They are usually the door and confront the anger that may have been misdirected toward their children.

If the child can remain in the home while the parents receive counseling and other supportive services or if the parents voluntarily relinquish their child for temporary placement, then Protective Services continues to handle these cases. If the child must be removed from the home by court order, the cases pass on to the Dependent Children's Services.

At the moment there are 375 families (some with several children) on the Protective Services caseload, but they are not feeling the extreme crunch of the dependency workers.

That all might change Jan. 1 when a new state law forces the Probation Department to shift some of its responsibility to Social Services — without the transfer of any of the all-county funds that presently pay for those services through probation.

Both Protective Services and Dependent Children's Services, already feeling the pinch of staff cutbacks ordered by the Board of Supervisors last July, expect to feel the added weight of this new law.

Protective Services also can expect to absorb some of the cases that are now in the process of being "thinned out" of Dependent Children's Services as a result of the order by Dr. Harold Pickett that has dependency case workers searching through their caseloads to find cases suitable for transfer to other departments.

"Dependency is still carrying some voluntary placement cases that will be diverted to us," Ms. Earle explained.

In special circumstances this will present problems for Protective Services.

"They would like us to take cases of voluntary placement even when the parent is likely to sabotage the placement or the parents are addicted to heroin. These parents just aren't workable — and we don't have the power of the court behind us. We can't say that a parent has to do certain things or the child will never be returned to them. This can be a handicap," she said.

Despite the heavier caseload that will fall on them because of the new probation law and the shift of cases from dependency, Ms. Earle wants the community to know that Protective Services is not suffering the way Dependent Children's Services is.

"We can still handle the cases assigned to us. When someone calls in, we still can get someone out to the house immediately if it's an emergency."

"Referrals have dropped significantly in the past two weeks. Part of this is due to the holidays, but part of workers. We can and still are doing the job we were intended to do."

Red Cross Youth Share the Holiday Spirit

Convalescent hospital patients, shut-ins and others needed an extra bit of Christmas cheer were the recipients again this year of a multitude of holiday art projects made by Red Cross youth volunteers in their classrooms throughout San Mateo County.

In Menlo Park, Oak Knoll Elementary School students made puppets, greeting cards and tray favors. Red Cross distributed these to shut-in children at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City.

Fourth Graders at Hawes Elementary School in Redwood City made tray mats, favors and tree decorations for Red Cross distribution to Kathy's Residence Home for seniors in Redwood City and Kaiser Permanente Hospital in South San Francisco.

In Belmont, at McDougall Elementary School, the annual project by Red Cross youth volunteers is the creation of a gingerbread candy house. Red Cross gave the house this year to the Dependent Children's Receiving Home in San Mateo.

Another gingerbread and candy house made by students at Nesbit Elementary School in Belmont found a home this year as a centerpiece at Saint Anthony's Kitchen in Redwood City.

High school students at Notre Dame High in Belmont made gifts to be used as bingo prizes at Burlingame and Belmont Convalescent Hospitals during the holiday season.

Foster City Elementary School students made hand puppets, tree decorations and mobiles, some of which found homes at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City and Kaiser Permanente Hospital in South San Francisco. They also made a special mural for the men's TV room at Millbrae-Serra Convalescent Hospital.

Borel Middle School Red Cross youth volunteers in San Mateo made Christmas tree decorations and holiday decorations which they personally delivered to Hillsdale Manor Convalescent Hospital in San Mateo. These students also collected 300 cans of food for the Christmas Bureau.

Students at Lakeshore Elementary School in San Mateo also donated food and toys to the Christmas Bureau through the Red Cross.

At Park School in San Mateo, a multitude of tray mats and tray favors were created. Red Cross sent them to Burlingame Convalescent Hospital, Whitcomb Convalescent Hospital in Menlo Park, San Bruno Convalescent Hospital and Millbrae-Serra Convalescent Hospital to brighten up holiday mealtimes.

Rhythm instruments made by students at Sunnybrae Elementary School in San Mateo were sent by Red Cross to San Bruno Convalescent Hospital for use in therapy.

Christmas cards, tree decorations and scrapbooks also went to San Bruno Convalescent Hospital as well as to Kaiser Permanente Hospital in South San Francisco.

At Mercy High School in Burlingame, Red Cross youth volunteers made beanbags for convalescent homes and threw a Christmas party for the Society of Crippled Children.

John Muir Elementary School students in San Bruno made greeting cards and a calendar. Red Cross gave these to Hillhaven Convalescent Hospital in Burlingame.

Peninsula High School students created flower pots with small plants in them, wall plaques and crocheted lap robes. Red Cross sent these to Devonshire Oaks Convalescent Hospital in Redwood City.

In Pacifica at Pedro Valley Elementary School, Red Cross youth volunteers made hand puppets, mobiles and rhythm instruments for use in therapy. They sang Christmas carols and presented a puppet show for patients at Linda Mar Convalescent Hospital in Pacifica.

Each year Red Cross teacher volunteers at all age levels, elementary through high school, all over our county plan a number of Christmas art service projects to enable students to experience the feeling of giving to others during the holiday season.

Recipients of these wonderful gifts are located by Red Cross High School age volunteers when they do their annual Community Survey during the summer months to determine community needs which can be met by Red Cross Youth Service Programs volunteers during the year.

These projects, the joy they bring to so many, and the time and thought that go into each and every item year after year, are another example of Red Cross dedication to the principle of People Helping People. And it's nice to know that our youth can find a way to participate.

Red Cross Youth Service Programs operate directly through the school systems in San Mateo County. For more information on youth service opportunities, contact your local Red Cross office.

New Animals in the Park

A new breed of animals is now on display at the California Academy of Sciences in Golden Gate Park. Bronze sculptures by Lorenzo Ghiglieri include silvertip grizzlies, walrus, timber wolves and the American bald eagle and are part of his "Heritage International Wildlife Collection."

Ghiglieri's sculptures are produced utilizing the lost-wax foundry method of the old masters and each piece is a representation of some of nature's most magnificent creatures.

Born and raised in Los Angeles, Ghiglieri is rapidly becoming recognized as one of the outstanding artists of our time.

His work is on view in North American Hall at the Academy. The museum, including the Steinhart Aquarium and Morrison Planetarium, is open every day from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Admission is 50 cents for adults and 26 cents for those 12 to 17.

Under 12 and senior citizens are admitted free of charge.

Don't know what it is about San Francisco teams, but they just seem to do things backwards. Like, the Giants played the Reds, Phillies and Dodgers even, but couldn't beat the humpies. So the 49ers split four with playoff teams, beating the Rams and Minnesota, and losing to L.A. in their only dumping of the year and to Washington in a game they really should have won. They also lose a game they should have won, in overtime to St. Louis, to the best team NOT to make the playoffs. But, of course, the 49ers got dumped by low calibre teams Atlanta and San Diego.

ADD TO CRIMES OF THE CENTURY the unwillingness of the United Press to name Delvin Williams to even its second team NFC all-pro squad. That's right, the same Williams who was second in the NFC to Walter Payton in ground gaining and third in all of pro football behind only Payton and O. J. Simpson.

It's easy to understand Payton grabbing one of the first team slots, and Chuck Foreman, who was the other running back in that mythical backfield, is a fine all-around player and a key to the Minnesota offense (But then so is Williams a fine all-around player and a key to the 49er offense). But as good as they were, how could Ram Lawrence McCutcheon and Washington rookie Mike Thomas edge Williams out on the second team?

Another reasonably good addition to that crime of the century list would be Kenny Stabler's being named to the second squad of one of the All-Pro teams (the origin slips the mind), with Baltimore's Bert Jones named to the first team. There is certainly nothing wrong with Jones, but I have this gut feeling that the selectors picked their quarterbacks on the basis of passing statistics only.

Their selection came out before the last game of the regular season was played, when Jones had a slight passing lead over Stabler. But Stabler edged Jones in that last game, and took the NFL passing title, leaving egg on the faces of those selectors. Especially after Stabler's exciting engineering of the playoff win against New England and Jones' bust against Pittsburgh.

And while Cedrick Hardman's complete disregard by all-star pickers doesn't quite measure up as a crime of the century, it's still very difficult to understand. Of course, Hardman plays on a western team, and unless a western team is a Los Angeles team, those eastern selectors just aren't about to pick both defensive ends from the same team (Tommy Hart is making at least the second team all-pro squads), no matter what the records say.

Bruce Rhodes, the San Francisco State walk-on who won himself a place in the 49er defensive backfield and became a key special teams man, finished eighth in the NFC in punt returns despite the fact that another rookie, Anthony Leonard, was the regular 49er punt returner for most of the season, and that Rhodes had at least 100 yards in punt returns called back because of penalties.

JOE NAMATH finished with the WORST passing rating in the NFL — easily. Perhaps it is time, now, for him to start thinking about taking Alex Karras's place on Monday night football.

Chuck Muncie, who the California Bears missed more than anybody this past season, had quite a year for a rookie running back with a weak team. What Muncie managed with New Orleans, despite a bad foot which hampered him in late season, was 4.7 yards per carry, which got him close to the top 10 among rushers in the NFL, despite his carrying the ball only 10 times a game. All runners who ranked above him carried many more times.

If you had a hard time this year keeping up with the Jones — and Johnsons and Smiths and Jacksons in the NFL, don't think you're getting prematurely senile. You had reason for your confusion. There were, in the NFL this year, 27 Johnsons, 18 Smiths (and one Schmidt and one Schmit), 16 Joneses and 11 Jacksons.

SOMETIMES WE FORGET just how good a shooter Phil Smith is. For example, Pistol Pete Maravich, who is currently leading the NBA in scoring and has had the shooting rep for years, drew headlines recently when he scored 51 points in a game against Kansas City. It was noted that it was Maravich's career high, and also that he played all but 35 seconds of the game.

Just a few nights before that, Smith had scored 51 points for the second time in a briefer career, and did it (both times) in much less the playing time.

Which leads us to another underrated (relatively) Warrior, Rick Barry, who is the least protected "super star" in pro basketball and probably the lowest paid.

One of my fans recently commented that Barry is a much better all-around player now than he was when he first broke in with the Warriors, and that he is especially more productive as a rebounder, now that a different style of play dictates that he shoot much less. I of course agreed that he is a better player now, but disagreed that he rebounds more now. I also noted that he had a better shooting percentage from the floor then, because he drove so much.

Then I looked it all up, and it turns out we had had both been tricked by time. During Barry's first two years as a hot-shot shooter for the Warriors, he averaged 12.2 rebounds every 48 minutes, whereas now he's averaging just 7.2. He also took barely more shots from the floor in those first two years than he has taken in the last two years, and his shooting percentage in his rookie and sophomore seasons wasn't as high as it's been in the last two years.

How, then, did he average about three more points per game in those early Warrior years than he's averaged in his second coming? The answer goes back to my original hypothesis. Before he was an acknowledged super star, and before, presumably, he had managed to alienate THAT many officials, he was at the free throw line twice as often as he is today!

One of life's little pleasures, if one is a sports fan, is looking into back issues of sports publications and watching experts sticking their feet in their mouths. One of the prime examples in recent years comes out of a January, 1974 "Basketball Digest," which ran an article entitled, "The NBA's Most Over-Rated Stars."

Barry was one of the Big Five, the others being Connie Hawkins, Oscar Robertson, Gail Goodrich and Jeff Mullins; strange that the Warriors should have 40 percent of the most over-rated stars the year they won the championship. And Barry had perhaps the best all-around year a pro basketball player ever had.

What did the experts say about Barry before that 1974 season? In part: "Barry's strictly offense now... (though) even his shooting's fallen off (Note: Barry averaged 30.6, second in the league to Bob McAdoo, with a 46.4 pct.). ... At one time he was a playmaker (but) his passing has gone downhill (Note: Barry averaged 6.2 assists per game, which tied him for 5th in the league and made him the top passing forward in the game).

Ring the New Year in With a Ride on BART

On New Year's Eve BART trains will take you there and get you back until 2:30 a.m. New Year's Day morning.

For the first time since beginning operations little more than four years ago, BART will be providing this special "into-the-morning" service as a convenience to late night and early morning celebrators on New Year's Eve.

This is BART's way of thanking patrons for ridership throughout 1976 and wishing them a happy 1977.

"We are hopeful that people who plan to do some traveling New Years Eve consider BART as a good alternative to driving," said BART passenger service manager Jack McDowell.

McDowell said late-night trains will operate under a normal night schedule on two lines at 20 minute intervals.

Under the late-night schedule, direct service is provided between Concord, Daly City, and Richmond/Fremont with the MacArthur and downtown Oakland stations serving as transfer points.

Last trains will depart from end-line terminals at 2:30 a.m., except Richmond which will have a 2:39 a.m. departure.

Express buses connecting several east-bay BART stations with outlying areas in Contra Costa and Alameda Counties will not operate past normal late-night schedules.

Child Abuse Issue Goes to Board

By BOB HEMINGWAY
The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors is willing to listen to complaints of the 20 social workers in the Department of Health and Welfare's Dependent Children's Services concerning case overload if all other remedies have been explored and found wanting.

Board Chairman William H. Royer said Thursday that, "Obviously, if the workers feel they have explored every avenue through the department, they have every right to come to the board. I feel the board will want to listen to them."

Social workers involved in child abuse investigations have complained that they are overworked and can't do an adequate job. They are seeking an additional worker and have given notice that they will accept no more new cases.

A lack of response from the Department of Health and Welfare officials prompted the social workers to announce earlier this week that they intend to take their complaints directly to the Board of Supervisors.

Royer said that he has requested a report from Dr. George Pickett, director of the Department of Health and Welfare, and that he expects it early next week. The matter probably will be on the board's agenda for discussion at the Jan. 4 meeting, Royer stated.

Other members of the board reported that they, like Royer, have been receiving letters and telephone calls concerning the situation.

Supervisor Edward J. Bacciochio Jr. commented that, "I'm willing to talk to anybody about the plight of children whose conditions are worsened as a result of the board's budget cut last June."

"If an emergency indeed exists, I will bring it to the board's attention on that basis," Bacciochio added.

Supervisor Jean Fassler stated: "I think their problem is real. But we have a lot of problems. It is a question of how to deal with them and juggle the money. I share their frustration. It is difficult to know how to deal with it when money is the answer. It is a traumatic thing in the lives of many people."

Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald said he is going to discuss the situation with Pickett, "who recommended the cuts (in staffing) at budget time."

"I assumed at the time that case loads could be covered," Fitzgerald stated. "The question in my mind is who is wrong."

The supervisor added that, "If the workers can't handle the job, maybe we should get workers who can."

There is "no question," Fitzgerald said, that "we have to take care of the abused children, but we're going to have to work harder."

Fitzgerald went on to emphasize that if the board got a "burn recommendation" concerning the staff cutbacks, the person responsible "should be taken to task."

Supervisor John M. Ward commented briefly that the board has asked for a staff report on the situation. He will be on vacation next week, Ward said, but will comment on the matter after reviewing reports upon this return.

2 Youths Give Alarm; Man Saved

Two Pacifica youngsters who reported a garage fire are being credited with possibly saving the life of a neighbor sleeping inside the house.

According to a fire department spokesman, Kevin Morris and T. J. Pemberton, both 12, were walking along Seville Drive in Pacifica around 8 p.m. Thursday.

They noticed smoke coming from the residence of Michael Johnson at 1108 Seville Drive and at first thought it was coming from the chimney, firemen said.

Looking closer, the boys saw that it was coming from the eaves and out the garage door and they rushed across the street to another house to alert someone.

Firemen said that Johnson, who had been working all day, was inside sleeping and his wife was out Christmas shopping.

The fire, controlled in about 15 minutes, did $4,000 in damage to the building and $1,000 to the contents, firemen said.

"Kids get blamed for so much," a fireman said. "It's nice to give them some recognition when they do something good."

Police in SSF Probe Shooting

An altercation at a Daly City shopping center apparently led to the shooting some time later of a South San Francisco juvenile, police reported today.

Authorities said a full report had not been submitted, but the victim, whose name was not made available, was reported in stable condition after undergoing surgery at Kaiser Hospital in South San Francisco.

A police news release stated that officers had responded at 5:45 p.m. Friday to a report of gunshots being fired in the 2300 block of Greendale Drive. Officers found that a juvenile male had been shot, reportedly by an unidentified Oriental male.

Police said the shooting apparently was the result of a previous encounter between the victim and a group of Orientals in their early twenties at Serrano Shopping Center.

Witnesses told police that after the shooting, a 1968-70 Dodge Charger fled the scene at a high rate of speed.

In another South San Francisco incident, a bartender, Robert E. Shreve of South San Francisco, was treated for injuries and another man was hospitalized and arrested after a battle at the Garden Club, 1144 Mission Road, according to police.

Police said two white men had entered the club just before 2 a.m. and were refused service by the bartender. One of the men then allegedly assaulted patrons leaving the bar, as well as Shreve, who suffered a bite on the groin.

James Louis Cack, 21, South San Francisco, was physically ejected, police said, and in the process assertedly suffered a head injury.

A police news release stated that Gack was restrained physically during attempts to give him first aid and while being transported by ambulance to Chope Community Hospital.

Gack was arrested and charged with battery with serious bodily injury and fighting in a public place. Police said Gack's combativeness aggravated his head injury and he was admitted to Chope for treatment.

Likewise, Mrs. Fulford said, "While it (the recall) is a necessary part of our electoral process, it should be used only for the most serious reasons and as a tool of last resort. It is not only disruptive of the normal electoral process, it is costly in terms of money."

She said the two special elections needed for the recall would cost $20,000.

Observers view the recall effort, at least in part, as a clash between pro- and anti-development forces, those behind the recall favoring more development than the three councilmen have favored.

In his reply, Savage said, "If you want Pacifica to continue the way it has with the developers getting what they want when they want it and if you feel that City Council policies should take care of the profits of local businessmen before the interests of the citizens as a whole, you should sign this petition."

However, citizens should not sign if they value other aspects such as the quality of life, he said.

Lorvan, in his answer, listed a long record of decisions he has made in almost 10 years on the council as proof that he has always had "the best interests of the citizens at heart."

He said those who are pushing for the recall are doing so for "personal" reasons.

"Recall is an extreme act," he said. "It breeds hate and prevents constructive activity. It should be based on malfeasance in office — acting for private gain or taking a public action so damaging to the people that allowing the normal course of elections to proceed is not conscionable."

MOTHER-DAUGHTER TEAM
Deborah Penny Port of Millbrae, newly-appointed attorney in the Criminal Division of the District Attorney's office, joins her mother, Lillian Lee Port, a school law expert in the DA's office. Miss Port is one of five new appointees who will begin work in the office on Jan. 3.

5 New Deputies Join District Attorney

Five new deputies will be joining the office of San Mateo County Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson Jan. 3.

One of the new appointees, Deborah Penny Port, 24, of Millbrae, will be joining her mother, Lillian Lee Port, on Sorenson's staff.

Four of the new deputies will be assigned to the Criminal Division to fill existing vacancies, and one will be assigned to the Civil Division to succeed Henry Dietz, a seven-year member of the department who is retiring.

Miss Port, a graduate of the University of California, Berkeley, and of Golden Gate College of Law, has been a researcher for the San Mateo County Superior Court during the past four months while awaiting results of the state bar examination. She will be a prosecutor in the Criminal Division.

Her mother, who has been with the District Attorney's Office for 3 1/2 years, is recognized throughout the state for her expertise in school law.

Dietz, who has been assigned to the County Planning Commission and environmental law during his tenure, will be replaced by Michael D. McCracken, 29, who has been in private practice in Palo Alto. Previously, he spent five years as an attorney with the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Staff members are making cracks about the sincerity of Dietz's retirement. Dietz, now 70, has held and retired from positions as San Diego county counsel, assistant state attorney general, U.S. Navy commander and law professor at the University of Santa Clara and Hastings School of Law.

Also appointed to his prosecuting staff by Sorenson are Mrs. Judith Dobbs of Foster City, Mrs. Paula Schlichter of San Mateo, both graduates of the San Mateo Law School who passed the latest bar examination, and David Martin of San Carlos, who has been an auditor with Santa Clara County.

When it mandated preparation of a transit plan more than a year ago the legislature specified that it be submitted for consideration by Jan. 1, 1977.

Royer suggested that the board consider endorsement of the plan and review the county's overall transit situation at a future date.

Supervisor Jean Fassler commented that the transit plan, which calls for upgrading of Southern Pacific service and supplemental bus service on Junipero Serra and Bayshore freeways, appears to her to be quite similar to the ill-fated Westbay Transit District plan of 10 years ago which emphasized bus service. (That plan was overwhelmingly defeated by county voters.)

Royer replied that the new plan, "is not the same."

"That's the reason we need an explanation," stated Mr. Fassler in support of Fitzgerald's request for a full report.

The board agreed to a continuance of the matter to Tuesday and will request that John Mauro, general manager of the County Transit District, be present to participate.

Benefit Dance Permit Denied

Slain Man's Brother Can't Use DC Community Center

A request from the brother of a slain Daly City man to use the War Memorial Community Center to hold a fund-raising benefit dance for the man's widow and unborn child was denied by the Daly City Recreation, Parks & Maintenance Department Wednesday because it could be precedent-setting.

The request, which came from John Valenzuela, brother of the late Carlos Matos, asked that the WMCC be made available on Jan. 22 for a dance. Refreshments but no alcohol would be served.

All proceeds from the event would be used to establish a trust fund for the widow and her unborn child, said Valenzuela in his letter to the commissioners.

However, the DCRP&MD department has a policy that the hall may not be rented to a minor and Valenzuela is a minor and a student at Jefferson High School.

In addition, Valenzuela has no liability insurance, which is required by the DCRP&MD nor does the department make it a policy to rent the hall for individual affairs.

CHARLES E. VINCENT, director of the DCRP&MD suggested that Valenzuela be directed to apply to the Jefferson High School District for use of one of their halls.

The commission did approve the use of the WMCC by the Original Daly City Protective Association on Jan. 16; the Marian Council, Knights of Columbus for their annual basketball tournament on Feb. 21; the Calvary Hill Missionary Baptist Church on April 17; and the Florence Crittenton Services on Feb. 12.

The County of San Mateo also won approval from the commissioners to use the Lincoln Park Community Center on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday during 1977 for the Daly City Senior Nutrition Program, which operates between 9 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. to serve approximately 130 people for a 35-cent fee.

First consideration for membership will be given to those living in Daly City, Colma, South San Francisco, and Pacifica.

the DCRP&MD's priority list for federal revenue sharing funds announced Vincent; who added that the list is now in the hands of the city council.

The recreation department's priority list also included (in descending order of importance) a junior recreation aid and equipment for the new Westlake park clubhouse — both estimated at $6,000.

On the park department's priority list the landscaping of Colma, Daly City and the Mission Street entrance held top priority ($15,000), with asphalt work at Westlake Park around the tennis courts at $3,000, and tree trimming and thinning around Westmoor Park at $13,000.

THE CONSTRUCTION of the Cameo Tot Lot in Serramonte was second to the bottom of the list ($25,000) and the construction of a storage garage at Westlake Park at $25,500 held the bottom position.

IN OTHER BUSINESS the commission:

- Learned that the City Council has approved a 50-cent fee for after-dark use of the newly lighted Reservoir B tennis courts located off Gellert and Margate in Serramonte.

- Learned that the Westlake Park Clubhouse will be completed by Jan. 1 and that the dedication ceremonies will be held on Jan. 16.

Good morning, good cooks.

Just in case you had turkey for Christmas and have some delicious leftovers, here's a recipe for a casserole that utilizes the smallest bits in an attractive and tasty manner.

TURKEY NOODLE CASSEROLE

4 Tablespoons margarine
1/2 medium onion, diced
1 stalk celery, chopped
4 tablespoons flour
2 chicken bouillon cubes
1/2 cup hot water
2 cups milk
1 1/2 cups cooked turkey
1/2 cup ripe olives, cut into thirds
8 ounces noodles
2 tablespoons margarine
6 tablespoons bread crumbs

Cook the diced onion and celery in the four tablespoons margarine, until they are limp. Stir in the four tablespoons flour. Remove from heat. Dissolve the two bouillon cubes in the half cup hot water, stir into the flour mixture. Return to heat and, stirring constantly, blend in the two cups milk. Cook until thickened. Add the one and one-half cups turkey, half cup sliced ripe olives, salt and pepper to taste and the noodles which have been cooking according to directions on package.

Pour into greased baking dish. Melt the two tablespoons margarine in small skillet, add the six tablespoons bread crumbs and heat and stir until well mixed. Sprinkle crumbs over top of casserole and bake in 350-degree oven, uncovered, about 30 minutes or until bubbly hot. Serves 4 to 6.

Skyline's Cagers Win Tourney

By FRED BAER
Post Correspondent

Skyline College basketball coach Lyle Newcomer got his Christmas wish — a convincing championship in his own school's holiday tournament.

The 75-60 triumph over San Mateo Community College District rival Canada Thursday night didn't come without an early struggle, however. And the visiting Colts impressed with the debut of their versatile freshman Phil Polee.

The closest game of the tournament was the third place contest. The St. Mary's JV kept Columbia winless (0-10) with a last minute 70-70 victory. Those two teams lost in the tournament openers by a combined margin of 95 points.

Although he didn't start either night, Polee shared tournament scoring honors with Skyline guard Ted Scott. Both tallied 16 Thursday and 22 Wednesday for a total of 38.

Polee entered the game against Skyline with seven minutes gone and the Colts trailing 13-9. He immediately got a dunk and a follow shot (around a Trojan free throw) to cut the margin to 14-13. Six points by Skyline's Dave Davis were countered only by a Polee lay-up, however.

Then, with Polee taking a breather, Skyline put on its only real spurt of the game, outscoring the Colts, 11-2 to take command at 31-17 with 3:30 left in the half.

And that's basically the way it stood the rest of the game. Skyline's advantage varying only six points (from nine to 15).

"I was surprised they didn't try to press us," said Newcomer. "And we had to take our press off when our guards got into foul trouble."

Canada meanwhile had trouble making good passes on breaks and penetrating the Skyline zone.

The Colts did get a few passes into Polee at the post, however and the 6-4½ leaper made four dunk shots in the game.

Polee and Canada's 6-6 Steve Lopez joined three Trojans on the all-tournament team: Scott, Joe Adams and Jim Donovan. Scott had 10 points, six assists and 11 rebounds against the Colts.

"We still have to get a bit better to beat Menlo," said Newcomer, referring to the upcoming Coast Conference game.

Both teams shot 45 percent from the field Thursday, Canada even getting one more field goal (25) than Skyline. But the Colts made only 10 of 22 free throws compared to Skyline's 27 of 36 while also dominating the boards, 41-34. Fifty fouls were called.

Only Skyline of the County's four JC teams has any JC action slated prior to the New Year. The Trojans carry a 10-3 record into the eight-team Chabot tournament in Hayward, Tuesday through Thursday. Canada (7-6) is idle until January 4 when the Colts play a final non-league tune-up with Gavilan.

Skyline's Ted Scott

Olympians to Clash At the Cow Palace

An Olympic flavor is expected to permeate every event when Northern California's only indoor track and field carnival, the San Francisco Indoor Games, has its 14th renewal at the Cow Palace, Jan. 21.

Meet director Jim Terrill said that he has been in contact with Olympic champions from a half dozen countries.

They include Caribbean gold medal sprinters Hasley Crawford (Trinidad) and Don Quarrie (Jamaica), miler John Walker (New Zealand), distance runners Lasse Viren (the two-time double winner from Finland) and Anders Garderud (Sweden), high jumper Jacek Wszola (Poland) and pole vaulter Tadeusz Slusarski (Poland).

Add to that list the elite American gold-winning group of weightman Mac Wilkins, long jumper Arnie Robinson, intermediate hurdler Edwin Moses, sprinters Millard Hampton (and other members of the USA 400 relay team) plus quartermilers Herman Frazier, Maxie Parks and Benny Brown.

There is the prospect of a 500-yard race limited just to gold medalists.

Terrill has also invited previous USA gold medal winners Willie Davenport (hurdles), Randy Williams (long jump) and distance runner Frank Shorter (who settled for a silver in the marathon at Montreal).

Other Montreal medal winners expected are high jumper Greg Joy (Canada), miler Ivo Van Damme (Belgium) and Paul-Heinz Wellmann (West Germany) plus USA long jumper James Butts.

On the women's side, gold medal-winning sprinters Annegret Richter (West Germany) and Irena Szewinska (Poland) plus American high jump record holder and Olympic placer Joni Huntley are just a few of the stars, Terrill plans to have on hand.

Spicing the field will be local university products such as NCAA hurdle champ Dedy Cooper of San Jose State, Wesley Walker of Cal (hopefully back from mid-season football injury), long jumper James Lofton of Stanford and high jumper Ron Livers of San Jose State.

San Jose's Ron Semkiw is looking forward to a shot put duel with world record breakers Al Feuerbach and Terry Albritton in one of the favorite events of the annual games.

More world record flavor should be added by Steve Williams in the sprints.

And Kenya, which held its stars out of the Olympics, expects to provide halfmiler Mike Boit, miler Wilson Waigwa and NCAA cross country champ Henry Rono, among others.

Tickets are now on sale at the Cow Palace and at all agencies.

CSM Victim Of CC Revenge

Contra Costa College didn't forget the 103-76 thrashing dealt by a host College of San Mateo basketball team earlier this month and gave a late-arriving Bulldog squad a 67-53 defeat in Thursday night's rematch in San Pablo.

CSM's bus didn't show up, so the players finally made the trip in private cars and never did get loosened up. Contra Costa stormed off to a 22-5 lead and the closest the Bulldogs could get was nine points, in the second half.

"We played a super game and a super zone," said CSM coach Bobby Pounds. "But we couldn't hit. We had all the opportunities and we held their scoring down since they like to run."

Mike Wilson scored 22 points and Maurice Pittman 12.

After winning their first six games of the season and gaining No. 5 ranking in the state, the Bulldogs have now dropped three of their last four contests, defeating only the San Francisco State JV (Monday).

Pounds has added a game with the San Jose State JV next Wednesday in San Jose to fill-in the schedule void prior to the league opener January 4 at San Jose CC. CSM defeated San Jose State handily earlier this month.

These seniors at the Lincoln Park Recreation Center in Daly City obviously enjoy Christmas festivities as much as the youngest child. They had their own celebration last week, complete with good food and holiday decorations.

Pacifica Snow Trip Planned

The Pacifica Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department will be sponsoring the Annual Community Center Snow Trip. The activity will be on Jan. 22 at Leland Meadows (near Sonoma) from 5 a.m. to 9 p.m. The trip is open to boys and girls in the third through eighth grades.

The first 20 signed up at each community center are guaranteed space. The cost of the trip is $17.50 and covers bus transportation, admission and full day's use of toboggans and ubes (no skiing). Deadline for signing up for the trip will be Jan. 18 before 5 p.m.

For more information about the snow trip, call Dave Barry, recreation supervisor.

The department will also be conducting a Winter and Spring Youth Sports program for boys and girls 7 through 12 years of age.

The basketball program will be offered from Jan. 10 through March 5, while the Soccer Program will be conducted from March 7 through April 3.

Registration for both sports will be held at Sharp Park School Cafeteria on Jan. 8 from 10 a.m.-noon and thereafter at the Recreation Department. Fee will be $10 for each sport.

Napa Blitz Stops Sharks

Oceans High's basketball team fell to non-league visitor Napa 71-59 Thursday. Napa blitzed the Sharks 29-14 in the second period to decide things.

Oceans (1-7) was led by Eric Tretten, who scored 17 points. Also reaching double figures for the Sharks were Wayne Gillette with 12 points and Allen Dawkins and Conrad Simon with 10 each.

"There are truths which are not for all men nor for all times."

—Voltaire

The plain truth is 1977 will not face some of the issues that created national turbulence in the past few years. Vietnam is over and with it have gone the race riots, campus revolts, political scandals in Washington and burning cities.

But Americans have the jitters. This is indicated in reports coming into the "U.S. News and World Report" and found in their Dec. 27-Jan. 3, 1977, issue.

From Chicago: "The mood is one of determined hopefulness, of toughness. Blind euphoria is out, but it takes more to get people down about problems."

From San Francisco: "The moods here are wait and see. People are holding back, not making firm plans for the future until they know for sure what direction this nation will take in the year to come."

From Houston: "The Southwest looks at 1977 with optimism tinged with caution."

From New York: "People expect the Carter administration to solve the country's nagging problems — at least keep them from growing into disasters."

MEANWHILE IN 1977 the birthrates will be low, but total births will rise because of the jump of women of child bearing age.

Saudi Arabia has enough oil to make lower prices stick in all the world.

People are expected to revolt against soaring property taxes.

The federal government's campaign to slash Americans' burden of paperwork is losing ground.

From "Plain Truth" (Nov. 1976 issue) comes some plain truths. The world is at the end of a seismic lull. This means that in 1977 more earthquakes the size of those that were experienced in China and Guatemala are expected. Such quakes cause tens of thousands of deaths.

"Plain Truth" carries an article by Carole Ritter. She reports that our environment is being rendered more unfriendly by both chemical and psychological pollutants. "Is our environment driving us bananas?" Ms. Ritter wonders if this is the reason for an upswing in mental illnesses, depressions, runaways, suicides, psychological problems of all kinds. Her article in "Plain Truth," although tied too closely to prophecy, is worth every minute spent in reading it.

FROM SATURDAY REVIEW for December 11, 1976, comes some other indexes into 1977. As President, Jimmy Carter will find "foreign policy management" to be his biggest problem as it has been for most of the leaders of the United States.

Meanwhile Howard K. Smith is emerging as more popular than Harry Reasoner and Barbara Walters. There's so much interest in gardening that some observers are saying that the "clenched fists have green thumbs." The movies are moving into an era of depicting the lives and loves of tycoons. However, the movies are geared for some lush, lulling and lavish musicals as well as for some biographies of interesting persons of the counter culture.

So called classical music is rearing its head for a comeback, ballet is getting bigger, and finally the publishing industry is getting ready for a whooper of a year. So that's the plain truth as the thinkers who create magazines see it.

Meanwhile, HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Airport to Get Better Noise Measurements

Improvements to noise measuring equipment at San Francisco International Airport have been ordered.

Airports Director William Dwyer said members of San Francisco's Airports Commission have approved spending up to $41,650 to improve the accuracy of existing equipment.

The 13 noise measuring stations which have been in use the past 15 months, he said, were not designed to discriminate between noises.

New devices can detect the difference between noise from airplanes and noise from motorcycles, trucks, trains and the wind, Dwyer said.

Although existing devices indicate the airport complies with state noise laws, the new ones will present a more accurate analysis of the impact of aircraft operations on neighboring communities, according to Dwyer.

Airports Commissioners also approved an improvement plan for Host International restaurant facilities on the main floor of the airport terminal, Dwyer reported.

New Brincat Hearing Set

A Superior Court hearing scheduled for Dec. 27 concerning a controversial auto body repair shop in South San Francisco has been put over until 9:30 a.m. Jan. 11.

At the hearing, the city must show cause why a businessman, Arthur Brincat, and his son, Arthur, should not be able to operate an auto repair shop at 619 S. Airport Blvd.

The city earlier denied the Brincats a use permit to operate the business for complicated reasons having to do with the legal ownership of the building.

On Dec. 10, Judge Robert Carey issued a temporary restraining order prohibiting the city council from shutting down the business, and the Brincats can temporarily keep it open.

'Vanities' Returns

The American Conservatory Theater's production of the New York and Los Angeles hit, "Vanities," reopened Dec. 26 at the Marines' Memorial Theater, Sutter and Mason Sts. Special holiday performances are scheduled with good seats available.

Jack Heifner's popular comedy about three young Texas girls growing up, which will be seen in San Francisco through Jan. 9 only, again features Sarah Harris and Patricia Richardson, with Rebecca Taylor replacing Valerie Armstrong in the role of the rebellious Mary.

A veteran of numerous regional theatre productions, Taylor also has extensive television and film credits.

Performances are at 8:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Two New Year's Eve performances at 6 and 9:30 p.m. will conclude the holiday season Dec. 31.

On Jan. 2 "Vanities" resumes its regular schedule: Tuesday through Friday at 8:30 p.m., Saturday at 6 and 9:30 p.m. and 3 at 7:30 p.m. on its closing Sunday, Jan. 9.

Seats are now on sale at A.C.T.'s Geary Theater box office and all agencies. Information may be obtained by calling (415) 771-4858.

County Sticks With Social Security

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors has given up the proposal to withdraw county participation in the Social Security System.

Acting on a recommendation by County Manager M. D. Tarshes, the board has voted to rescind its action of August 1975 giving notice that it intended to withdraw the county from Social Security.

Tarshes said an actuarial report indicated that county cost would rise by more than $800,000 annually if benefits were provided under the government code and if a substitute for Medicare was obtained outside the retirement system.

State legislation which subsequently would have allowed the same benefits at lesser cost was vetoed by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. because, he said, of his "serious reservations about encouraging the wholesale withdrawal of county governments from the Social Security System."

Daly City Shooting Term Set

Elbert E. Fontelar, 18, was sentenced to the California Youth Authority Tuesday by Superior Court Judge Alan W. Haverty for shooting a Daly City man last August.

Fontelar, of San Francisco, had pleaded to assault with a deadly weapon in shooting Terry Donegan, 20, in the shoulder when Donegan saw Fontelar and two other men allegedly tampering with a car in the garage of an apartment complex and chased them away.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Thomas A. Blake said a Municipal Court judge several weeks ago ruled that there was insufficient evidence against two other men initially arrested with Fontelar. They were Henrique M. Lacsina, 21, and Charlie Day 26, both of Daly City.

Women

Hold Buffet, Reveal Pals

The American Baptist Women of the Westlake Community Baptist Church met at the home of Marge Davis Dec. 20 for a buffet supper and Christmas party.

Some 26 persons attended.

Mrs. Joanne Palmer, program chairwoman, presented a musical program which included Barbara Roberts, Teresa Gill, Carol Chochran, and Joanne and Susan Palmer.

Secret prayer pals for 1976 were revealed and new ones were chosen.

A Christmas gift exchange was part of the evening's program, which was concluded with a Christmas reading by Naomi Newkirk and the closing prayer by Marge Falk, the unit's president.

Board to Meet Earlier

Beginning with its Feb. 1, 1977, meeting, the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors will start its regular Tuesday meetings at 9 a.m.

Introduction of an ordinance to that effect was approved on the board's consent agenda without comment at Tuesday's meeting.

The change was proposed by Supervisor John M. Ward, who first advocated an earlier meeting time shortly after taking office nearly two years ago.

The board, which has had a Tuesday starting time of 10 a.m. for more than 20 years, has on occasion begun its regular sessions at 9 a.m. when agendas appeared lengthy.

First Meet

Daly City Chapter No. 1541 of the American Association of Retired Persons, Inc., will conduct its first meeting of the new year on Jan. 10 at 11 a.m. in the Westlake Community Center, 145 Lake Merced Blvd., Daly City.

New Animals in the Park—Bronze Ones

A new breed of animals is now on display at the California Academy of Sciences in Golden Gate Park. Bronze sculptures by Lorenzo Ghiglieri include silvertip grizzlies, walrus, timber wolves and the American bald eagle and are part of his "Heritage International Wildlife Collection."

Ghiglieri's sculptures are produced utilizing the lost-wax foundry method of the old masters and each piece is a representation of some of nature's most magnificent creatures.

Born and raised in Los Angeles, Ghiglieri is rapidly becoming recognized as one of the outstanding artists of our time.

His work is on view in North American Hall at the Academy. The museum, including the Steinhart Aquarium and Morrison Planetarium, is open every day from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Admission is 50 cents for adults and 26 cents for those 12 to 17.

Under 12 and senior citizens are admitted free of charge.

New Scout Post Takes Flight at SF Airport

A new Explorer Scouting post has been formed under the wings of Western Airlines at San Francisco International Airport.

Paul Harding, regional vice president, recently welcomed Peninsula youngsters to the Post's organizational meeting, conducted a tour of a Boeing 720-B, and showed a movie titled "Oh, How we Flew."

Harold Achtziger, manager of cargo sales and service said the Western Airlines Explorer group meets at the airline's airport offices the second and fourth Tuesday of each month.

Members show a high level of interest in the field of air transport, he said.

Future meetings will explore every department of the airline, with employees explaining their duties and the qualifications needed to meet employment standards. Exploring is a career-oriented program developed by the Boy Scouts of America as a means of introducing young people to vocations in which they are interested.

It is coeducational in nature, and both boys and girls are able to join, Achtziger said.

Safeway Hit by Bandits

A San Mateo Safeway store was robbed by two men wielding an automatic Luger pistol on Christmas Eve, police in that city reported Saturday.

Frightened clerks told Officer Lou O'Connell that the two men entered the store at 1655 S. El Camino Real at about 3:45 p.m., produced the heavy-caliber pistol, pointed it at a clerk, and demanded that she open her cash drawer.

After pocketing the receipts, they ordered a second clerk to do the same thing.

The suspects fled in an old, beat-up, blue station wagon after the robbery, O'Connell reported.

One of the suspects was described as about 25, 5 feet 7 inches tall, with a mustache and a bad complexion, wearing a blue knit cap and a green or tan corduroy jacket. The second suspect was described as white male between 25 and 28, and standing about 5 feet 7 inches.

The robbery netted the suspects about $600, O'Connell reported.

Pacifican Slain

A Pacifica man was shot and killed Friday night and his wife arrested for investigation of murder, police at that coastal community reported today.

Police identified the victim as Terrance J. White, of 89 Montecito Ave. He was declared dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City, where he was taken soon after authorities learned of the shooting, shortly before 10:30 p.m.

Taken into custody was White's wife, Gwendolyn.

Grant Is Awarded

Daniel Donati, a student at Cogswell College, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Renato Donati live in South San Francisco, has been awarded a technology scholarship sponsored by Standard Oil Co. of California. He was selected by a college committee to be the recipient based on the excellence of his work in technology.

He is an honor student and has been on the honor roll. He also has a Miranda Lux Scholarship and Cogswell Scholarship. He ran for student body president and is now starting construction procedures on a new gym.

Monday Start For DC Cabs

The Daly City Cab Co., owned and operated by 15 out-of-work former Yellow Cab co. employees, was to begin operations Monday.

Daly City Police Sgt. Steve Lowe announced the new company's intentions.

The new cabs will be orange instead of the familiar yellow. New meters have also been installed.

Lowe said some of the owner-operators of the new company had to mortgage their homes to buy into the group.

Holy Angels Social Slated

Mrs. Audrey Zanobini announces that she will be selling tickets Jan. 4 at the Women's Guild meeting for the annual Holy Angels Parish social to be held at the Verdi Club in San Francisco.

The complete cost per couple will be $25, which includes liquid refreshments, dinner, and dancing.

The service will be conducted by Rabbi Ira Book.

At the conclusion of services, an Oneg Shabbat (Social Hour) will follow hosted by two members of the Temple Sisterhood.

Congregation B'nai Israel, also has announced that there will be no Shabbat (Saturday) Hebrew School classes.

However, there will be regular Shabbat (Saturday) morning services in the Temple House, commencing at 10 a.m.

Rabbi Book will lead the services. To be read on this Shabbat morning of Jan. 1 will be: Parsha: "Vayigash."

Rabbi Kolatch is the director of the Challenge to Learning School in San Francisco.

Additionally, on January 8, Frank Muller, former student of the Beth Israel-Judea Religious School, graduate of the University of California Berkeley, and presently assisting in the music program of the Religious School, will lead the services.

Two Held After Robbery and Chase

Two South San Francisco men were in custody at the Burlingame Police Station Saturday following the robbery of a 7-Eleven store and a high-speed chase that ended in their arrests.

According to Police Sgt. Eric Haseleu, the incident began at 5:38 a.m. when two men entered the store at 975 Rollins Road, produced a pistol and a knife, and robbed the clerk of an undetermined amount of cash.

The pair left in a blue sedan, which the clerk subsequently described to arriving police after touching off a silent alarm.

Responding to the clerk's call for assistance were Haseleu, Officer Dennis Schneider, Officer Ron Fulkerson and Officer David Gyselbrecht, who fanned out in a search for the suspect vehicle.

Additional police from nearby jurisdictions came to the assistance of the searching police, Haseleu reported.

While checking the area, Haseleu reported, he spotted the suspect vehicle and gave chase. The pursuit ended up at Bayshore freeway in a high-speed pursuit over the Broadway overpass, during which time, Haseleu reported, he unholstered his weapon and fired a shot at the fleeing suspects.

At the end of the over-pass, the vehicle suddenly spun around and crossed over the overpass in the opposite direction, stopping in the center as police closed in.

Two men, identified as Joe Medeiros, 28, of 643 Grand Ave., South San Francisco, and Billy Joe Scroggins, 32, of 348 Commercial Ave., South San Francisco, leaped from the car.

One of the pair tried to leap from the overpass but was subdued by officers and taken into custody.

The pair was lodged at the Burlingame Police Station and booked on charges of armed robbery.

DIRTY HARRY IS BACK WITH ANGER AND GUN BLAZING

"The Enforcer," third in the trilogy featuring Clint Eastwood as Dirty Harry Callahan, the unorthodox San Francisco policeman, is no less violent or cold-blooded than were his "Dirty Harry" and "Magnum Force." But to keep pace with the times and to give this parade of carnage and bloodletting some variety, he's introduced a female police partner.

It's the only thing in the picture that doesn't follow formula A, B or C. Those Callahan fans who aren't shocked that 16 people get "offed" in a succession of vicious killings ranging from blowups to a close-range pistol shot between the eyes to knifings, being run over by a truck, and shotgun blasts, can see the film now on the Peninsula.

The mix is the same as before: scorn for those who are naive enough to think that even criminals have rights; raw violence and a brutal sadistic approach to law enforcement. This formula has succeeded so well in the past two "Harry" efforts that Warner Brothers has brought the sardonic one-man SWAT detail and his 44 Magnum back for a repeat performance. Eastwood claims it is his last.

Unimportant as the plot is, Callahan (less neanderthal than in the past, now that he's proved himself a bonafide toughie), is in dispute with his superiors in the department because of his violent but effective methods. There are some pretty good actors mixed up in this mess: Eastwood playing the loner Callahan; Brad Dillman as a sycophantic police captain, John Crawford as the San Francisco mayor who is kidnapped and held for ransom, and John Murchison as Harry's Italian partner who gets killed early in the movie to enable Kate Moore, played by Tyne Daly, to be assigned to homicide as Callahan's unwelcome partner.

Ms. Daly holds her own against the formidable male cast and in a restrained, realistic way, is both natural and likeable. Callahan relishes in humiliating her but they come to respect each other and almost touch on being attracted to each other. That's nipped in the bud almost as soon as it starts and the two continue as fiercely competitive partners.

The photogenic skyline and picturesque streets of San Francisco look splendid in vivid color. Even the final shootout at Alcatraz has a certain scenic beauty about it. And the film probably serves a purpose in giving the impression that someone cares (at whatever cost) about apprehending criminals.

People are rightly disturbed by senseless acts of criminal violence; it is not surprising that pictures that present simplistic solutions to hard questions are popular. "Harry" might just be the worse of two evils when you think of the seething anger and uncompromising nature of the man.

Mussel Rock Dump to Close

By FRANK LAPIERRE
The California Regional Water Quality Control Board has ordered Daly City to close its Mussel Rock garbage dump on Aug. 15, 1977.

This gives both Daly City and Pacifica less than nine months to find a new dump site and build a transfer station somewhere in the city.

David Rowe, city manager of Daly City, said there are two engineering firms being considered to study construction of a transfer station in either Daly City or Pacifica. The study, expected to cost about $6,500, is to be completed in early January and turned over to a site selection committee for further action. It was learned.

The two companies — Easley & Brassy Corp. of San Francisco and Metcalf & Eddy, Inc., of Burlingame — have experience in the construction and operation of transfer stations, according to Rowe.

A transfer station is where collection trucks dump their refuse in a confined, odor-free building, then put into larger vehicles which compact the refuse and transport it to a disposal site.

Daly City now collects and dumps some 130 tons of garbage daily at Mussel Rock.

The site selection committee is made up of two council members from each city and the city managers.

Both cities have been meeting, mostly behind closed doors, to hammer out guidelines and proposed locations for the transfer station construction, operation and location.

There have been several site possibilities considered, including one at Edgemar and Mussel Rock.

The Mussel Rock location would require a permit from the Coastal Zone Conservation Commission. Whether the commission would grant such a permit in view of the fact the San Andreas Fault goes through the area, is unknown.

An Environmental Impact Report will be required, Rowe predicted.

One City Hall source said Daly City is leaning toward private ownership of a transfer station with regulatory control of its operation by the city.

Another possible site — one that Daly City is less than lukewarm to — is at the Rock Quarry in Pacifica. It also would fall under the jurisdiction of the Coastal Zone Commission.

Adult Education Classes Resuming

Beginning January 3, Congregation Beth Israel-Judea in San Francisco will resume its adult education classes.

Yiddish and Hebrew are offered from 7 p.m. to 8:20 p.m.

Following the language courses for the period of January 3-24, Joseph Friedman, past president of the temple and former confirmation class instructor, will deliver a series of lectures on the "Jews in Spain."

On January 10, regular adult classes will resume with the first hour being devoted to Basic Hebrew taught by Judy Morris and "Torah, Its Meaning" taught by Rabbi Herbert Morris and Cantor Henry Greenberg.

'Pigeon Drop' Cheats Enjoying Holidays

Bay Area residents apparently still have not gotten the message about the recent spate of "pigeon drops."

A 39-year-old San Francisco woman just recently was shopping at Westlake Shopping Center in Daly City. She was in the restroom at JC Penney's when another woman decided she would make a good victim of the time-worn scam called the pigeon drop.

The woman told the shopper that she and a second woman had found $1,000 and that the three could split the money. It was agreed that, if the San Francisco woman put up $1,000 of her own money as a good faith gesture, she could hold the bag of money until the three could split the roll of bills inside.

The woman did as she was told, and, as has happened more times than police — and the "pigeons" — would care to admit, the woman really was left holding the bag. But not of money — of shredded paper with a few bills rolled around it.

"Almost annually we try to put out some kind of notice on this," said Lt. Tom Culley. "It seems to be more common during the holidays because people are carrying around more money and they are more prone to want to take advantage of a get-rich-quick scheme."

Culley said the San Francisco housewife did not discover the cheat until while after she said good-bye to the two women. And at first, the lieutenant said, she was too embarrassed to admit that she had been taken.

New Shelters for Winter BART Riders

With winter here BART patrons should find a welcome addition at all aerial stations in recently completed special wind and weather shelters.

The new steel-framed glass screens are located on the platform level of all aerial stations and are designed to offer patrons additional shelter on cold or rainy days. New benches and seats were also included in the project.

Construction of the new aerial platform shelters began early in the year at a total cost of $375,000.

Two thirds of the project cost was federally funded from an Urban Mass Transportation Administration grant in the amount of $250,000. The remaining third of $150,000 was funded from local Transit Development act monies.

In addition to aerial station platforms systemwide, new weather shelters have also been constructed at the ground level of the Fruitvale, El Cerrito Plaza and El Cerrito Del Norte stations as well.

BUTTON UP

Members of the Junior League of San Francisco including (from left) Mesdames Joseph Dobos, A. D. Cline Jr., Harold Fick Jr. and James Vopicka are hoping members of the community will observe the message on their buttons and participate in next year's league-sponsored cultural previews. The one-hour lectures, which are offered free of charge, serve as previews of performances by the San Francisco Symphony, A. C. T., the San Francisco Ballet Company, and the 1977 Spring Opera. All will be in San Francisco.

Previews of Cultural Events Set

A series of previews of cultural events including symphony, theatre, ballet and opera performances will be staged the next four months by the Junior League of San Francisco in cooperation with the San Francisco Symphony Association and the San Francisco Museum of Art.

The one-hour lectures will all be presented free of charge as a public service. Local members of the League working on the project include Mesdames A. D. Cline Jr., Joseph Dobos, Harold Fick Jr., James Vopicka and Edward Gwinner.

Four symphony previews have been scheduled in the Rotunda of the San Francisco Museum of Art, McAllister and Van Ness Ave., San Francisco. Speakers for the programs, all slated for 11 a.m., and topics are as follows: Paul Herte-lendy, music critic, Jan. 20, the all-Bartok program featuring "Two Portraits, Op. 5," "Violin Concerto, No. 2," and "The Miraculous Mandarin." Joaquin Nin-Culmell, composer, Feb. 3, Ginastera/Concerto for String Orchestra featuring Beethoven/Piano Concerto No. 1.

"Sibelius/Symphony No. 5," and Heuwell Tircut, music critic, March 10, the all Stravinsky program featuring "Symphony in Three Movements," "Violin Concerto," "Ragtime for 11 Instruments," "Symphonies of Wind Instruments," and suite from "The Firebird."

Rounding out the symphony previews will be a program by Stephanie Von Buchau, performing arts editor of San Francisco Magazine, who will talk on April 14 about "Tchaikovsky/Piano Concerto No. 1," and Schostakovich "Symphony No. 10."

Friends of the American Conservatory Theatre (ACT) and the Junior League will sponsor jointly a prologue of the production "Travesties" by Tom Stoppard. The speaker, who will be announced at a later date, will address participants from 6 to 7 p.m. March 28 at the Geary Theatre.

Two ballet previews have been scheduled in 1977 for the Rotunda of the San Francisco Museum of Art. On Feb. 25 the ballet "Gershwin" will be previewed by a still to be announced speaker who will address the group at 11 a.m. And on April 20 Russell Hartley, director of the San Francisco Dance Archives, will preview the San Francisco Ballet history in a discussion of the development of the San Francisco Ballet Company from 1922 to 1977. It will get underway at 11 a.m.

Tenor and lecturer James H. Schwabacher Jr. will preview a presentation of the Spring Opera Theatre (to be announced) at 11 a.m., March 24, in the Rotunda of the San Francisco Museum of Art. That preview will be presented in cooperation with Spring Opera Theatre.

More information about any of the programs may be obtained by contacting the Junior League of San Francisco which is located at 2226 Fillmore St., San Francisco 94115.
